Medical students, like patient time and green caterpillars, creep forward. For medical students and caterpillars alike, there comes a great time of metamorphosis, when out of cocoons of feverish waiting, bright new wings are flexed. From the first rung of the medical ladder, the Senior Class of Nineteen-Hundred and Fifty-Nine raises its head above the confusion of new green finery to present, with enthusiasm, the . . .

PRESENT

This is the last willful admission of the Class of '59—a body of full term fetal physicians about to precipitate upon the outside world. Onset of this condition dates to about four years ago when with our own hot, sweaty little hands, trembling with enthusiasm, we planted ourselves in this womb of the Medical Arts. First came the pre-cynical years. Solemnly we busied ourselves urinating in large brown bottles, starving little white mice, and muttering wisely about the inferiority of the sodium ion. This academic serenity was temporarily broken when young John Hines breathed himself into alkalosis—a medical reality in our world of ping pong and polypeptides.

We enter with gusto and fire. "Here coach; take our money."

"What does it say on the next page, Kimel? I think I see bone."

"Watch it, Hines! How about holding that bottle a little closer!"

ILLNESS

The Voice of the Turtle led us from the land of the living, and our greasy fingers turned forty pages a day while they performed the most thorough strip show on earth. Spirits ran high as we excavated the gore of the dead, for this was the true initiation.

Pleasure soon became a serious pursuit, and among Phi Chi, Phi Rho, and Saturday Afternoon Drinking Society members the word "biochemistry" meant an emulsion of sex and alcohol. This was the Golden Age of beer barrels and cigar swallowing and improvised poems by Holland. The Thomps was at large, and now respectable scholars then answered to "Hungry," "Lappy," "Poochy," and "Dad." The Demon Docs was a team that wore academic supporters and won Pity trophies.

"I don't know; maybe I wouldn't recognize Mrs. Roosevelt anyway."

"Yeah, I know it's working, but where does the gin come out?"

Restful moments of relaxation were always greatly cherished.

In the OPD, things once held inconceivable quickly became routine.

As Sophs we learned to tell which end of Mrs. Roosevelt resembled a Josh Turnage cell, and other more specific matters. The blight hit us all; Claude had Hodgkins, Quinn had heart attacks, and Kimel became a Giant Wheal—cursing Flemming all the way. We suffered through treadmills, tilt-tables, and dog-blood baths to the tune of guffaws from down the hall. It was a very bad year for rabbits, and our flawless surgery sped many a bunny away from the cares of this world.

Suddenly we had reached the age of clinical puberty, and were cut adrift on the wards, seemingly without a paddle. The patients were real and ours to poke and ponder. Having extracted all their juices, we withdrew to the joys of smearing blood, boiling urine, poling about in feces, and all such manner of sport.

"At last! A classic case of the dreaded navel lint disease!"

The natural history of history-taking:

As sophomores . . .

As juniors . . .

In these pursuits we were joined by three refugees from the Badlands and a distinguished Dutch Venapuncturist.

And there was the Great War. Under the glorious leadership of Gen. Jesus Jones we went forth for two years to do battle with the Nursing and House Staff. Let us not forget the unsung heroes of these routs, such as the Junior Varsity Surgeons, et al. There were martyrs at every step, be they the victims of Hematology Clinic, Matrimony, the New Library Reich, or Religious Focus Week. Yet we survived.

Ruling out ourselves as the Bible Belt's answer to the Beat Generation, our present diagnosis is Infant Physicians, confused and distressed, yet possibly viable. Our prognosis according to Dr. Mann is great, really great.

Ancient tribal custom, now forbidden by current missionaries.

As seniors . . .

We leave: "Sorry, boys; no refunds."

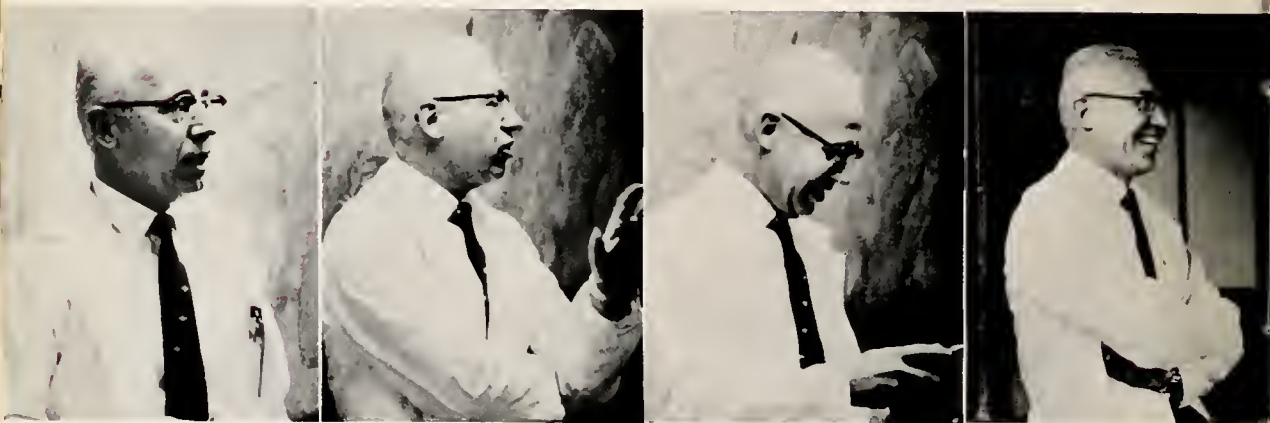

DEDICATION

The Class of Nineteen-Hundred and Fifty-Nine likes to think of itself as a group of clear thinking, purposeful, enlightened individuals, but in many things these ideals unfortunately remain somewhat disguised by less altruistic conceptions. When the group gathered to decide to whom the 1959 edition of the GRAY MATTER would be dedicated, however, these shining principles, for once at least, were brought out of hiding and fully put to use.

To approach the problem wisely, the group formulated in its mind the ideal situation. The man to be chosen, they said, must have the interests of his charges in mind in a manner that surpasses mere classroom personality and appeal. His approach must be seasoned with the salt of experience and careful consideration, but yet he must be flexible enough to adjust to change with patience, good humor and newborn enthusiasm. His intellect must demand respect and his knowledge in his chosen field seem miraculous, yet this must be shared with humility and graciousness. National recognition for such a man could almost be presupposed, but this too must be the fruit of years of patient hard work.

When the choice was made, it became obvious that ideals and reality had met. The Senior Class respectfully dedicates the 1959 edition of the GRAY MATTER to HAROLD D. GREEN, M.D.

ADMINISTRATION AND FACULTY

God and the Doctor we alike adore
When on the brink of danger, not before.
The danger past, both are alike requited
God is forgotten and the doctor slighted.

The Bowman Gray Chapter of the Student American Medical Association has had a particularly good year. Strong leadership and active participation have brought about a high level of organization and function which has resulted in many excellent programs of worthwhile interest, a working system of communication between administration and student body, and an improved and expanded system of committees which cover practically every facet of the student's life.

CHAIRMEN OF THE SEVERAL COMMITTEES THAT KEEP SAMA WHEELS TURNING are, left to right: George Armstrong, Publications and Program; Joe Black, Curriculum; Ann Ray Thomas, Orientation; John Hines, Social; Mary Ann Hampton, Internship; and Douglas Maynard, Honor, Student Health, and the Student-Faculty Advisory Committee. Not pictured are Tom Ivey, Finance; T. E. Morris, Athletics; Sam Lamm, Publicity; and George T. A. Morris, Insurance.

Many will remember the fascinating discussion held by Dr. Corbett Thigpen, personal physician to the Three Faces of Eve. No less interesting was Dr. Morris Fishbein, who spoke on "Fifty Years of Medical Progress," with much good humor and experience. In March of this year, the Bowman Gray Chapter played host to representatives of twelve southeastern medical schools when the district meeting was held here. The Senior Trip to Asheville in early May was also largely promoted and managed by SAMA.

Dr. Morris Fishbein and Dr. Wingate Johnson pause after Dr. Fishbein's discussion on "Fifty Years of Medical Progress."

WHITE MATTER

D E D I C A T I O N

To one who gave her time freely to us through our training, who gave words of encouragement when the way seemed impossible, who could make us smile and believe in ourselves when no one else did, who presented all of nursing to us and guided us in proper educational and social development to prepare ourselves for the future, who taught us and guided us when we needed it most, who took time to visit with us, attend our parties and give counsel any time we wanted it (and started a family in the meantime), who gave us a black band for our cap and congratulated us as we neared the end of our training, who saw us achieve our goal with victory; because of her help in molding us to the professional nurses we are today, it gives us, the Class of 1959, a deeply felt pleasure to dedicate this edition of the WHITE MATTER to MRS. KALEIDOSCOPE

On September 4, 1956, seventy-six wide-eyed, bright-faced girls came to Winston-Salem with dreams of becoming professional nurses. We faced our new task with a strong ego, but apprehensive of what was in store for us. As we sat at Miller Park eating hamburgers and singing we knew the next three years would not be a picnic but rather a constant challenge for us.

We began classes and soon learned nursing was far more than what we expected, and we faced our chosen career with eager anticipation—still feeling quite unsure of ourselves. Flower arranging seemed at first to be a very important part of our school, and we shall always remember our feelings of insecurity with our first patient contacts. We learned to make beds, to take blood-pressures, to give enemas, preps and injections; to do shampoos, haircuts, manicures and other odd jobs—all a part of nursing.

Wake Forest College came to Winston-Salem the same year we did, and we rolled out our red carpet to welcome them. Many of us had our eyes open to catch some lucky college boy. We began our Anatomy classes and filed into buses each Saturday morning to go to Wake Forest to learn all we could about the world's most fascinating machine—the human body, its intricate parts and how they operate.

We learned then that though we had mastered flower arranging, we still had a lot to learn about nursing.

Spring Follies came early that spring; we let our hair down (a few put it up), and we had a wonderful time, the dances, the "trash-can band," the songs and the beauty queens all. Other highlights of spring were the thrill of capping, our first eight hour day on the wards and of course, other activities such as picnics, fraternity parties, and sunbathing on Shuffle Board Beach.

Summer came and we began our specialties of nursing. We traded our blue and white uniform for a little green gown and entered the bewitching operating room. We traded our smile for a solemn frown and though concealed by a mask we were rather frightened. We learned we knew nothing about sterile technique except to the echo of "drop it." However, we learned to scrub, and scrub we did. We scrubbed our hands, instruments, carts, walls, and everything. On another unit—Obstetrics—we operated differently, concealed behind our masks were smiles as we watched the miraculous birth of a child. We concentrated again on good technique and complete care of our new mothers through channels to reach even their emotional needs. We had some weddings, and some of our students began raising their own families; our instructors did also.

The children on Pediatrics taught us new communications; their smiles, goes, and cries when something went wrong as we learned their growth and development. Christmas on Pediatrics, our T E fistulas, and our precious experiences soon passed; sooner than anticipated and it was time to leave Pediatrics.

At Dix Hill we adjusted well to our emotions by seeing many different forms of human behavior. Our id, ego, and super-ego was at work keeping us well balanced.

Our hours of work and study have been pleasantly spaced with dances, banquets, parties, picnics, tennis and hikes.

At last we were seniors; we added a stripe to our caps, a beautiful black band. We tried our luck as clinic nurses, emergency room nurses, nurses with the blood mobile, public health nurses and even head nurses on the units where we worked. In our classes we heard of other jobs like office nursing, industrial and military nursing.

Nursing was bigger than ever. We evaluated our three years training as the happiest of our lives. As we tried on our white uniforms we knew it was not the end of our learning but the beginning of a wonderfully promising career. Many doorways were opened to us and we could choose the one most appealing. The other fields of nursing would be recalled often with pleasant memories of our experiences.

We had spent our years of training, too soon they had slipped by; the classes were over but the learning had only begun. We pledged again to our career—"Reverently do I pledge myself . . .

MODERN FILTER

IS ONLY THE BEGINNING OF A WINSTON

It's what's up front that counts

Winston's got it—FILTER-BLEND—fine, mild tobaccos specially processed for filter smoking!

Once you've developed a modern filter like Winston's—what about tobacco? Winston research found the answer to that—FILTER-BLEND in the tobacco end!

Exceptionally fine, mild tobaccos are selected, blended and specially processed by Winston for filter smoking. That's the real difference between Winston and all other filter cigarettes. That's FILTER-BLEND!

THE BAND TO BEAT!

Hanes patented neckband keeps its shape always!

Here's a T-shirt that can pass inspection no matter how often it's worn or washed. The secret? Hanes' exclusive No-Sag construction—always fits smooth and snug. Nylon yarn is knitted right into the neck for extra strength. Another secret: Hanes' exclusive whiter-than-white finish. Stays snowy, wash after wash. It adds up to the best T-shirt buy in town. Only $1 for men, 75¢ for boys. Hanes makes fine briefs and shorts, too—roomy and long lasting.

S.K.F. Medical Color TV... an aid to postgraduate medical education

If all the programs presented on S.K.F. Medical Color Television could be assembled in one book, you would have at your finger tips the collective experience, in almost every field of medicine, of many of the world's most eminent physicians.

The continuing aim of S.K.F. Medical Color Television is to make available its facilities and technical skills to these physicians so that they can present to you, at medical meetings, the latest in medicine and surgery.

Before the end of our next decade in this medium, we hope that you will appear not only in the audience... but also in front of our cameras.
